From Friday, September 6, 2019 to Monday (Holiday), November 4

Universal Studios Japan will hold its extremely popular annual event “Universal Surprise Halloween” for a limited period from Friday, September 6, 2019 to Monday (Holiday), November 4.

With a record number of attractions available for this year’s Halloween, “Three Halloweens: Screaming Halloween, Otona Halloween, and ‘Kowa Kawa’ Halloween” have been greatly scaled up throughout the park. Once you take a step inside the park, you will experience “super extraordinary available only here at the park” with its overwhelming worldview and quality.

“Screaming Halloween” will have an array of “scariest” attractions which can be said to represent this Halloween season, including a scaled-up version of “Zombie de Dance,” which attains great popularity every year, and a survival horror maze that has reproduced the latest series of “Biohazard™” as well as a shocking new maze where guests face impossible terror and a brand new “active-style horror maze.” We will have “Otona (adult) Halloween,” a fashionable and extremely beautiful horror experience, this year too, which, proposing a new Halloween horror, became a hot topic of conversation as Japan’s notable immersive entertainment last year with its additional tickets sold out only a few minutes after their release. Moreover, at “Kowa Kawa (scary but super cute) Halloween,” perfect for family guests, under the theme of “All the kids who want to play tricks get together!” guests can have a blast all day long, from morning to night, at the park, playing tricks as much as they want without worrying about other people’s eyes.

Not only will we provide you great fun experiences as a sacred place of costuming that has led Halloween culture in Japan, but we will also deliver you unimaginable Halloween experiences, where both children and adults are sure to enjoy themselves in their own ways, with “high quality and large scale available only here” by introducing “Six New Appearances” and “Seven Scaling-ups.”
