Message from The Harvard Krokodiloes

The Harvard Krokodiloes are delighted to be performing at Shiba Park Hotel in their new library! When we aren't singing around the world, we spend our time reading and studying in the Harvard Libraries. This is the group's 34th year coming to Japan and we are honored to be staying and performing at Shiba Park Hotel. We hope you enjoy our performance as well as your visit at Shiba Park Hotel.

About The Harvard Krokodiloes <https://www.kroks.com/>

Harvard's Signature A Cappella Group

Comprised of twelve tuxedo-clad Harvard undergraduates, the Harvard Krokodiloes have been charming audiences across the world since 1946 with their signature blend of jazz, funk, rock and roll, and ballad arrangements. Their musical excellence, witty humor, professionalism, and intricate choreography have made them instant crowd-pleasers and earned them invitations to perform in more than 60 countries. Every year, the Kroks embark on 80 days of international tour to around 20 countries, performing for esteemed audiences including President Bill Clinton, King Bhumibol of Thailand, and President Mukherjee of India. From Cambridge to Cape Town, in public concerts or private performances, the Krokodiloes promise an a cappella experience like no other.
