Ryuzu Falls (on October 19th)

Lake Yunoko (on October 19th)

Konsei Road (on October 17th)

● Nature

Konsei Road, Sanno Forest Road, Lake Yunoko, and Ryuzu Falls are currently at their best for the autumn leaves. The best time for viewing, depending on the location, is a week to half a month later than the usual. Compared to last week, the color on Konsei Road has changed rapidly. In addition, the leaves of Japanese oak and Katsura trees, which usually turn color early and drop their leaves, are still in color.

On the other hand, red tones were also noticeable on the upper part of the First Iroha slope (downhill) on October 17th, giving the impression that the timing of the autumn leaves is different from the past.

As of October 19th, the autumn leaves on the north faces of Mt.Sannoboshi and Mt.Taro. It is recommended to go to the Karenuma Swamp via Lake Karikoomi to view the autumn leaves of Mt.Sannoboshi.

● Information

The Sanno Forest Road between Okunikko to Kawamata is open until the end of October.
