● Nature

The morning of October 21st was very cold, with a temperature of minus 3.1 degrees celsius at Yumoto area, and rain fell on October 23rd, which seemed to have damaged the leaves in the area where already they were at their best.

Although the trees along the shores of Lake Chuzenji are still mostly green, but the coloring of the trees is progressing day by day. In a few days, the green color will be gone and we will be able to enjoy the vivid autumn leaves.

The autumn leaves of the Ashio mountain massif seen from the second parking lot in Mt.Hangetsu are also beautiful.
