Lake Yunoko (on December 25th)

Ryuzu Falls (on December 23rd)

Snow-covered mountains of Nikko

● Nature

From December 22nd to 23rd, the minimum temperature dropped below -10°C and the wind speed exceeded 12m/s, creating the appearance of a winter storm in Yumoto. Snow continued to fall until December 24th, with about 40cm of snow accumulating. Due to this cold wave and snowfall, Lake Yunoko froze over and Ryuzu Falls began to be covered in ice, creating wintery scenery in many places. In addition, the ski resort was partially opened, but there was still not enough snow for snowshoes. Snow was forecast from the night of December 26th through 28th, so further snowfall is expected.

● Information

At noon on December 25th, the Konsei Road on National Route 120 was closed for the winter.
